Q1 Commentary

During the first quarter of 2026, the Greek stock market delivered a -2.6% with FTSE Banks recording a smaller loss of -0.18%. The Greek market has come under severe pressure during March (-10%) as investors reacted to the renewed escalation of tensions in the Middle East. Medium and long-term potential is underpinned by structural reforms, enhanced international visibility, and deeper integration with European market infrastructure. MSCI confirmed the long-anticipated reclassification of Greece to Developed Market status, with implementation now set for the May 2027 Index Review, pushed back from the initially indicated August 2026 timeline following investor feedback on transition readiness. We view the delay constructively, as it allows for a more orderly repositioning of portfolios, mitigating execution risk and reducing the likelihood of forced, liquidity-driven dislocations around the event. We remind that there are further index catalysts this year, with STOXX likely to follow with a similar decision in April and FTSE set to implement its own upgrade in September 2026. The General Index declined by -2.63% in the first quarter of 2026, while the Triton (LF) Greek Equity (Class A) recorded a smaller loss of -0.95%, outperforming its benchmark by +1.67 percentage points.

Investment risks

Risks from the Sub-Fund's techniques and securities

Market	Liquidity	Derivatives (Leverage)	Concentration
The fund is subject to normal market fluctuations and the risks associated with investing in securities markets. The value of your investment and the income from it may be affected by general economic and political factors as well as industry or company specific factors.	The fund operates in a market characterized by low trade volumes and securities that may become illiquid. This results in a higher risk of losses due to reduced trading speed/efficiency and sharper price fluctuations.	The derivatives market introduces significant levels of complexity, increasing the probability of adverse gains or losses to the fund that holds derivatives. The higher sensitivity to price movements of the underlying asset can asymmetrically affect the price of a derivative that is linked to it.	Mutual funds with concentrated investment policy may be exposed to higher risk, higher volatility and lower liquidity from mutual funds with less concentrated portfolio.

TRITON (LF) GREEK EQUITY IS A SUBFUND OF 20UGS (UCITS) FUNDS, A SICAV REGISTERED UNDER PART I OF THE LUXEMBOURG LAW ON COLLECTIVE INVESTMENT UNDERTAKINGS (UCITS-IV) OF DECEMBER 17, 2010
